The Research on Libraries Fund

Background

The Margaret Scott Research Fund was renamed The Research on Libraries Fund following a review of the Fund in 2018. The name of the Fund was broadened to include research initiatives for any library sector, whereas the original Fund was limited to research that supported school libraries and school library programs.

The recipient may be an approved person or group from any library sector and who meet the application criteria.

The Research on Libraries Fund will focus on school library research initiatives from 2018-2019. In 2020 the OLA Fund Development Committee will review the OLA Strategic Plan to identify another library sector that the fund could benefit.

Funding requests may range from $500-$2,000 depending on the scope of the project. The Fund will also consider supporting larger-scale research proposals which may be requesting and receiving funding from a variety of sources.

Margaret Scott

Margaret Scott was one of the century's true icons in school library development. She influenced several generations of libraries who were at the frontier of school libraries in the 60s and 70s. Her untimely death in 1976 was a huge shock to the community. The OLA Board at the time launched this Fund totally on the individual donations of OLA members. For years, the Fund was used to subsidize travel of school librarians to other schools and to specialized learning programs.

The first awards were given in 1978.

Eligibility/Criteria

Applicants to this Fund must be OLA members in good standing or recommended by OLA members in good standing.

Proposals must include:

- Clear, well-articulated goals and objectives for research that will identify best educational practices in school libraries, lead to the improvement of elementary or secondary school libraries and/or programming within school libraries, or enhance in other ways the understanding of the contributions of school libraries to student success (stipulation for 2018-2019);
- A plan to conduct qualitative and/or quantitative research and to provide a conclusion or summary of findings, following accepted research methods and ethical guidelines;
- The intention to share findings through one or more avenues such as publishing findings in The Teaching Librarian magazine (stipulation for 2018-2019) or presenting findings at OLA Super Conference.

Application Procedure

The application form can be completed at:

The OLA Margaret Scott Research Fund and must include:

- Individual or organization name and contact.
- Research scope.
- Description of research idea or project.
- Expected achievement of research idea or project.
- A description of the benefits to the school library community if the idea or project is pursued (stipulation for 2018-2019).
- A short statement on why the idea or project is deserving of the fund.
- An estimate on how the funds will be used such as:
 - Costs associated with stakeholder engagement/outreach (e.g. travel, focus groups, participant incentives, survey costs, etc.).
 - Costs association with conducting research, including external consultant fees.
 - Research dissemination costs (e.g. website development, graphic design, publishing/printing costs, etc.)
 - Other costs pertinent to the research project or initiative.
- Applications will be accepted at any time of the year with no closing date.

Selection Process

- Eligible proposals will be assessed according to the set criteria and will be weighed for their vision, timeliness, and funding requested.
- Proposals will be scored against the rubric below. A minimum score of 9 points should be achieved in order for the proposal to be considered.
 - If a proposal scores 8 points or less, the committee may request additional information to see if the score can be raised.
- A sub committee of OCULA and OSLA Council, and other solicited OLA members with a background in research will assess the proposal and make a recommendation to the Fund Development Committee.
 - This committee will be struck within six weeks of a submitted proposal.
 - The committee may select more than one successful proposal each year.
 - The Fund Development Committee will assess the sub-committee's recommendation and will approve the proposal at the following
 - Fund Development Committee meeting.
- The presentation of this fund is at the discretion of the Fund Development Committee and is not necessarily awarded every year.
