"Today we are excited to introduce our 2022 Forest of Reading lineup of amazing Canadian children’s literature. We can’t wait to watch students from across the country fall in love with reading or fall in love with reading again through these wondrous titles, resources, and activities. The Forest brings the best pleasure reading to you every year. Read on and ENJOY!" says Ruth Gretsinger, Co-Chair, Forest of Reading.

The Forest of Reading consists of ten programs distinguished by age group and reading level, each with ten nominated titles, selected by committees of library practitioners. The English school-aged programs are Blue Spruce, Silver Birch (Express and Fiction), Yellow Cedar, Red Maple, and White Pine. French school-aged literature is celebrated through the Peuplier, Mélèze, and Tamarac programs. The Forest of Reading has an adult program, Evergreen, which celebrates excellence in Canadian literature as a summer-reading book club (nominees for Evergreen are announced in February).

Throughout the program year, the Forest of Reading provides quality online literacy and reading engagement resources that can be used in school and library programming or at home. In April, those who participate in the Forest have the opportunity to vote for their favourite books and select the award winners.

Developing a love of reading is crucial, especially after unprecedented disruptions and closures to schools and libraries and declining reading levels over the past two years. The Forest of Reading is excited to share this year’s 100 nominated titles, written and illustrated by more than 125 nominees, and to celebrate with our 270,000 participants.

All school-aged nominated titles will be available in alternate formats through Centre for Equitable Library Access (CELA) and Alternative Education Resources of Ontario (AERO).
